

If I were an Elephant

by John Brooks

Illustrations

by Laura Coshan

If I were an Elephant

Book 1 of 11

If I were an elephant,
my relatives, long ago,
would have been called mammoths, and mastodons and lived all over North America.

If I were an elephant,
I could live in the jungles of India, Asia, or Indonesia. Or maybe the jungles of Africa.

EUROPE

ASIA

AFRICA

OCEANIA

If I were an elephant,
I would have been in many battles fought by armies of men.

Where there were once many subspecies of elephants, now only the African and Asian populations remain.

Elephants are the largest living land MAMMAL in the world and are protected under the Endangered Species Act. But elephants still need your help.

Please do not support any illegal trade in elephant products. If you were an elephant, you would want people to do the same for you.